A GLOBAL COMMUNITY CONVERSATION ON CANCER CONTROL

TALK FOR AN HOUR. CHANGE CANCER FOREVER.

Go Public: the first-ever Global Community Conversations on Cancer Control invites people everywhere to come together and take part in a groundbreaking series of informal yet crucial conversations about cancer and cancer control.

Starting February 4th, 2009 (World Cancer Day), hundreds of conversations will be taking place around the world between people whose lives have been touched by cancer in many different ways: oncologists, radiologists, nurses, researchers, patients, survivors, family members, and many more. Held in boardrooms, living rooms, kitchens and community centres worldwide, these people-powered conversations, which anyone can host, will help shape the agenda of the Global Leadership Forum for Cancer Control (taking place in Ottawa, Canada in

Welcome

Welcome to the Open Ventures Challenge. The Challenge, in aid of Cancer Research UK, is applying open innovation principles to venture creation.

We are looking for ideas and people that can make a big difference in helping Cancer Research UK beat cancer. They can be independent business ventures, new ventures for an existing company or a new venture for Cancer Research UK to run themselves. The Challenge will take these ideas and people through concept creation, team building, funding and launch.

To get started, create an account or log in. Once you're logged in you'll be able to browse, comment on and rate ideas submitted by other members of the community, as well as posting ideas of your own. See you inside!

Hello!

Welcome to the Open Ventures Challenge. Can you help build three new ventures which each generate £10m to beat cancer?

For more information, please see the about or faq pages.
